SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE

Would Follow Prolonged War-London Reports Demand for American Stocks.

By W. STEALEY.

There were no developments yesterday to indicate when the New York Stock Exchange and other large exchanges throughout the country will reopen. Brokers here agreed that it would be timed so as to make the resumption of business as nearly normal as possible. The uncertainty of the war is, of course, the principal factor. There is a pronounced disposition in financial circles to take all war news at a heavy discount. The belief is expressed, however, that a pronounced English naval wicktory would settle the question of commerce and open the seaports of the markets of the United States. This would be of incalculable benefit to the markets of the United States. This would be of incalculable benefit to cotton, wheat and other foodstuffs. Correspondingly it would raise the "high cost of living" in the United States. New York evidently is going to wait and excitement can be avoided.

Foreign Exchange Clearances

Owing to the serious derangement of the foreign exchanges, The National City Bank of New York will undertake to act as a clearing house to facilitate the exchange of banks and cash credits in South America and in other parts of the world. As a result of the moratoria and bank holidays that are in force in many important commercial countries, it is for the time being impossible in a normal way to buy and sell exchange upon those countries.

It is feasible, however, in many cases to clear debits and credits upon foreign points, provided there can be brought together business interests having credits and debits at the same locality.

If corporations, firms, or persons having foreign credits or desiring foreign credits will communicate with us, we will undertake so far as possible to offset these debits and credits.
